Head Start Week named

This week has been proclaimed Head Start Week by Gov. Christopher Bond in recognition of the achievements of the Head Start program in Missouri. The program is designed to give a "head start" to underprivileged pre-schoolers of the community by providing hot meals, education and health assistance to the children before they enter kindergarten. The Missouri Valley Head Start Center in Sedalia is located in St. Patrick's School, Fourth and Washington, and provides assistance for 60 children. In these photos, children of Mrs. M. L. Stevenson's class made ice cream Monday, ending a study of milk products. In the photo at left, three of the children assist in the work by adding eggs to the ingredients. They are, left to right, Margie Ward, 3, Dionne Cline, 4, and Kimberly Green, 4. In the photo at right, the children help Mrs. Stevenson crank the ice cream bucket after all the ingredients are added. The children are, from lower left, Kimberly Kabler, 3, Kelly Buckner, 4, and Mike McCutchon, 4.

Cox may have been source of ITT leak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Archibald Cox testified today he may have been the source of a news leak about the telephone call from President Nixon instructing former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst not to appeal one phase of the ITT antitrust case.

The White House acknowledged that Nixon had once told Kleindienst not to make the appeal but cited the ousted special prosecutor's testimony as "an admission of wrongdoing" and said it illustrates "the partisan attitude that has characterized his activities in recent months."

White House Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren repeated a White House assertion of Monday that Cox "improperly disclosed highly confidential details of his investigation ..."

Cox said that if he indirectly had been the source of a story about the antitrust case in today's New York Times, he was sorry and said it was an "error of carelessness."

Cox's surprise statement before the Senate Judiciary Committee followed publication in the Times of a story saying it had learned from an unidentified source that a Nixon call to Kleindienst had held up a planned Justice Department appeal of an adverse court decision in the antitrust case.

The White House called the Times' story "distorted and unfair" and accused Cox's former staff of "an inexcusable breach of confidence" in the matter.

Cox said that he was greatly upset by the leak and, after racking his brain, recalled that on one occasion it was possible he had mentioned the subject to others outside his prosecutor's office.

He went on to say that he had disclosed Nixon's reported call to Kleindienst to Sens. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and two members of their staffs.

He told the committee that each of these four had assured him that they had not given the information to the Times. In Hart's case, he added, this assurance was received indirectly since the senator is sick.

He added he hoped the committee members would be "charitable enough" to believe that he had not intended that the information would be leaked to the press.

In explaining how he happened to disclose the information, Cox said that during the stress and strain of the last two weeks, "I spoke more freely than I intended with a few friends."

He acknowledged that he had broken a confidence with Kleindienst who was deputy attorney general at the time of the out-of-court settlement of the antitrust cases against International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

"It was inexcusable," Cox said. "I feel very badly this morning." He said, however, that it made him feel better to acknowledge "my error."

In other Watergate-related developments today:

—The Senate Watergate committee agreed to try to reinstate an agreement cancelled by the White House to give the panel access to relevant presidential tape recordings. The proposal was withdrawn when Nixon decided to obey a court order and give the tapes to U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica for review.

—The White House and Sirica reached an agreement whereby the judge will hear in closed session presidential claims of privilege on portions of the disputed Watergate tapes. White House counsel want parts of the tapes kept from the Watergate grand jury.

—A spokesman for Sen. William P. Saxbe, R-Ohio, said Saxbe has discussed a possible appointment to succeed Elliot L. Richardson as attorney general. But the spokesman said Saxbe has not talked about the matter with President Nixon and quoted the senator as saying, "Until I do, that's where it stands."

The Cleveland Plain Dealer earlier quoted authoritative sources as saying Saxbe's nomination to succeed Richardson may be announced today or Wednesday.

—The House Judiciary Committee voted its chairman, Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., broad subpoena powers to aid in the committee's investigation of possible grounds for impeaching the President.

Israelis accuse Egyptians of firing missiles at planes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Israeli military command accused the Egyptians of firing three surface to air missiles at reconnaissance flights over Israeli-held territory in the Sinai today but said none of the planes was hit.

The complaint came as U.N. forces tightened their surveillance of the Mideast cease-fire. A U.N. official said in Cairo that Swedish troops have established six observation posts along the Suez cease-fire line and are trying to link with Finns to the south.

He said 53 more Swedes and Finns are due in Cairo tonight to increase the special U.N. emergency force to 660.

The Israeli command said the missiles were fired at its reconnaissance planes flying over the mountainous Jidi area near where the bulk of Egypt's 3rd Army has been trapped by Israeli forces on the east side of the Suez Canal.

The Israeli government came under home front criticism Monday when it allowed supplies to reach the isolated Egyptian army without first winning concessions on the return of Israeli prisoners of war.

Egypt and Syria have so far refused to provide Tel Aviv with lists of Israeli POWs.

Premier Golda Meir held up plans to return 2,000 wounded Arab POWs until the Arabs come up with a list of Israelis they captured in the war.

Maj. Gen. Shmuel Eyal said the Israeli government believes Egypt is holding about 350 Israelis and Syria about 100. He says Israel is willing to trade the 7,000 Arabs it captured for them.

In Washington the White House announced Mrs. Meir would come to the United States on Thursday to confer with President Nixon, who has scheduled meetings between now and then with Egyptian and Soviet envoys.

The White house said Mrs. Meir's visit was arranged by mutual agreement and was apparently part of the United States effort to get negotiations toward a Middle East settlement started.

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said Egypt informed U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim it will give the prisoner list to the International Red Cross, but there was no immediate comment from Israel.

Al Ahram said Egypt made the promise while stressing to Waldheim "the necessity of Israeli troops withdrawing" to their positions when the first U.N. cease-fire went into effect Oct. 22.

An Israeli military delegation led by Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv met Monday for the third time with Egyptian officers at the cease-fire line on the west bank of the canal, and an Israeli spokesman said they discussed the prisoner situation.

Broad powers of subpoena in probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee today gave Chairman Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., broad subpoena powers to aid in the committee's investigation of possible grounds for impeaching President Nixon.

By a strict party line vote, the committee authorized Rodino to subpoena evidence and witnesses himself without waiting to get full committee approval.

The committee also revised committee rules to permit scheduling of meetings on short notice, in another step to expedite the investigation.

Republicans, who opposed granting subpoena powers to Rodino, said the committee should conduct its historic proceedings on a purely bipartisan basis.

Rep. Tom Railsback, R-Ill., offered an amendment to permit the committee's ranking Republican, Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Ill., to share the subpoena power with the chairman. It was rejected on a vote based on party lines, 21 to 17, the same vote by which the original amendment was approved.

Rodino assured the committee that he would not use power to "mount a witch hunt."

"There will be no wholesale issuing of subpoenas," he said. "I am only seeking contingent authority so as to avoid delay in cases of routine subpoena and in cases where circumstances make full committee consideration impracticable."

He promised to consult with Hutchinson before issuing any subpoenas on his own, and said he has advised Hutchinson on all committee actions taken so far.

In addition to beginning an investigation that could lead to Nixon's impeachment, the committee is gathering information for hearings on the confirmation of Rep. Gerald R. Ford to Michigan as vice president. The new subpoena powers granted to Rodino will be available in the Ford investigation as well.

Talks for reducing NATO forces open

VIENNA (AP) — Negotiations for a reduction of NATO forces and Communist forces in Central Europe opened today with a Communist call for the troop totals on each side to be reduced but the ratio between them to remain the same.

"The aim of all participants should be to preserve the existing correlation of military forces on a lower level," Ingo Oeser of East Germany told the delegations from the United States, the Soviet Union and 16 other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Warsaw Pact.

"This could be done," Oeser went on, "by reducing forces and weapons at an equal percentage or an equal quantitative rate with the understanding that this includes national and foreign forces and weapons, nuclear weapons and their delivery systems."

This view is directly counter to that held by the United States and its allies. They contend that because the Soviets and their allies have many more troops and arms in Central Europe than the Western alliance, and the Soviet Union's reserves at home are much closer to Central Europe than America's, Communist cuts must be far greater than reductions by the West.

Welcoming the delegates, Austrian Foreign Minister Rudolf Kirchschlaeger declared: "The last days and weeks have shown us all how necesssary it is to reach this goal."

During the first two days, the heads of each of the 19 delegations will address the conference. Former Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor, the head of the U.S. delegation, and Oleg Khlestov, a legal expert from the Soviet Foreign Ministry, are to speak Wednesday.

Western diplomats preparing for the arms talks have been trying to play down their differences relating to Middle East policies. But the Nixon administration made clear last week it was highly displeased at the refusal of West Germany, Britain and some of its other European allies to help the U.S. airlift to Israel.

This so angered Washington that Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger threatened a unilateral review of the 200,000-man U.S. troop commitment to West Germany, instead of waiting for the outcome of the negotiations with the Soviet Bloc.

America's European allies were angered by the failure of the United States to inform them it was sending arms to Israel from American bases on their territory and also by Washington's placing U.S. troops in their countries on alert last week without informing them in advance.

However, a White House spokesman said Monday "the State Department did consult" regarding the alert.

Access to Ford files is limited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee has agreed to a Justice Department request that it strictly limit access to 1,400 pages of "raw" FBI investigative reports on the fitness of House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford to be vice president.

Declaring they have no intention of stalling or delaying consideration of the nomination, committee members voted unanimously Monday to call Ford as the first witness at confirmation hearings beginning Thursday morning.

The Senate Democratic leadership, meanwhile, advocated "all due deliberateness" on the nomination.

Rules Committee Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., said that Acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork last Wednesday withdrew by letter a previous Justice Department promise to provide nine committee members with summaries of the FBI's investigation into Ford's background.

With Cannon abstaining, the committee voted unanimously Monday to accept Bork's new offer to provide only the "raw," meaning unevaluated, investigative file.

Access to that file is limited to Cannon and to the committee's ranking Republican, Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky. They have been examining the file since Wednesday and are to prepare their own summary for committee members.

Cannon said an FBI man is in the room with him at all times when he is inspecting the reports. He said the agent is thoroughly familiar with the raw data and can answer questions on it.

All of the material is returned to the Justice Department each day when he and Cook have completed their examination of it, Cannon said.

Survey indicates Sedalians feel Nixon should not be impeached

A Democrat-Capital survey conducted Monday evening revealed that a slight majority of Sedalians feel President Nixon should not be impeached, but that only 14 per cent favored the President's firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

The random telephone survey showed that 52 per cent of those questioned felt that Watergate and its related incidents did not, at least at this time, merit the impeachment of Mr. Nixon.

Fifty local residents chosen at random were asked the following Watergate-related questions: (1) should President Nixon be impeached? (2) should President Nixon resign? (3) do you agree with the President's firing of special prosecutor Archibald Cox? (4) do you think that the President will eventually be impeached?

Sixty-two per cent of those questioned thought that Mr. Nixon had acted wrongly in firing Cox. Another 24 per cent had no opinion, while only 14 per cent approved the firing of prosecutor Cox.

While a thin majority thought Nixon should not be impeached, perhaps surprisingly, 38 per cent felt that the President eventually would be impeached.

Fifty-four per cent felt that Nixon should not resign from office.

Here are the results of the survey:

	Yes	No	No opinion
Should Nixon be impeached?	34%	52%	14%
Should the President resign?	38%	54%	8%
Do you agree with the President's firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox?	14%	62%	24%
Do you feel that Mr. Nixon will eventually be impeached?	38%	54%	8%

Court names four to arbitration board

The Pettis County Court Tuesday named four members to an arbitration board who will hear the court's dispute with Pettis County Firefighters Local No. 2228.

The dispute involves the court's Sept. 12 decision to fire county firefighter Danny Taylor, LaMonte, a union member.

The court selected two members of the board from a list of four names previously submitted by the union. Named were Ray Hendricks, president of the Sedalia Federation of Labor; and Herb Ford, business representative for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 124, which is based in Kansas City.

Appointed directly by the court were James Harvey, farm representative at Union Savings Bank; and Larry McRoy, manager of Sedalia Computer Services.

All four men have agreed to serve on the arbitration board, according to Presiding Judge Harry Walch.

A fifth board member now must be selected by the other four. Any decision the board makes in the dispute will not be binding on the court.

Walch said the board members now must set up a time and place for the hearing.

In a letter sent to the members of Local 2228, the court said the board now must "provide for further proceedings. We suggest that the matter be promptly disposed of."

The disputed firing prompted the union to say that Taylor was fired because he was a union member. The court said it was not even aware that Taylor was a member of the union and fired him because a more experienced firefighter was found. The court also contends that Taylor was only a temporary employe, a point which the union disputes.

Sirica will listen to tapes in secrecy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House and U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica reached agreement today whereby the judge will hear in closed session presidential claims of privilege on portions of the disputed Watergate tapes.

White House lawyers want parts of the presidential tape recordings kept from the Watergate grand jury.

Sirica met with J. Fred Buzhardt, counsel to President Nixon and two members of the staff of the special Watergate prosecution force — counsel Philip Lacovara and deputy prosecutor Henry S. Ruth.

"All parties agreed that the White House will prepared as soon as possible an analysis of materials which will be transmitted to the court together with the tapes and documents themselves," Sirica said after meeting 1½ hours with the three men.

"Before the court examines the materials it will hear argument in a closed session on the various claims of (executive) privilege," he said.

The agreement provides that after the arguments Sirica will examine the tapes and written material and decide individually each claim of privilege and what may go to the grand jury.

The judge said his rulings will be handed down one at a time after the court has examined the materials.

Another meeting was scheduled for Friday afternoon to set a schedule for the agreements worked out.

None of the participants in the meeting would say anything beyond Sirica's statement.

The tapes in question cover nine presidential conversations made between Sept. 15, 1972 and April 15 of this year with former aides H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III.

Former special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox won an order from Sirica that specified the judge would screen the tapes for material that should not go to the grand jury investigating Watergate and related matters.

The U.S. Court of Appeals, in upholding Sirica's order, set out specific areas — such as national security — as matters that should be withheld from the grand jury.

Trick-or-treaters are cautioned by police chief

Police Chief William Miller said Tuesday morning that motorists should exercise extreme caution while driving in the city Wednesday night because of the large number of children who will be on the streets "trick-or-treating."

"There's going to be a lot of young children out tomorrow night," Miller said, "and they will be crossing in the middle of the streets as well as the intersections, so I urge all motorists to drive with extreme caution."

Miller said that the youngsters would probably be trick-or-treating as early as 6 p.m. and suggests that parents try to curtail their children's Halloween activities by 9 p.m.

Miller also recommends that the costume worn by the children not have a face mask that might impair the child's vision and that the costume be as light-colored as possible so children may be seen more readily.

"Due to the fact that some of the 'treats' received by youngsters in the past have been doctored with drugs, pins, razors and that type of thing, we would recommend that parents limit the trick-or-treating to their known neighborhood and friends," said Miller.

Miller said that although no additional police officers would be on duty, they would be bolstered by auxilliary police and members of a citizens-band radio club.

Jury trial in assault case underway here

A Pettis County Circuit Court jury of nine men and three women began hearing testimony Tuesday morning in the case of Richard Boggs, 19, 108 East Cooper, who is charged with assaulting a police officer. He allegedly assaulted Sedalia Patrolman John DeJarnette May 7 at an altercation at the Sedalia police station.

After Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming and James Buckley, Boggs' attorney, presented opening statements, DeJarnette took the witness stand before the court recessed for lunch.

DeJarnette testified that Boggs, his mother, two brothers and other persons came into the police station on May 7 shortly after he had taken Boggs' younger brother, Donny, into custody.

DeJarnette said Boggs "jumped on my back and started choking me" shortly after entering the station.

The police officer said he took Donny Boggs into custody after a police officer from Bonner Springs, Kan., had identified the youth as one of two persons who had been throwing rocks at cars.

DeJarnette said he arrested the youth near his home in the 100 block of East Cooper and did notify the boy's parents of his apprehension, but told the boy's brothers to notify their parents.

When cross-examined by Buckley, DeJarnette testified that he had not specifically mentioned the defendant in his original report concerning the altercation at the police station.

DeJarnette also said he originally filed a charge against Boggs in Sedalia police court, which was later dropped.

Also scheduled to testify Tuesday afternoon were police Sergeants J. V. Phelps and Frank Lueck.

Members of the jury are: Felix Sullivan, M. G. Goodrich, Harry A. Trotter, Larry D. Craig, Mrs. Charles Blaylock, Betty Hickam, Clyde Bullock, Russell King, Noah Killion, Mrs. B. C. Claycomb, Chester Anderson and Harold Silberstein.

Tuesday is the deadline for owners of all vending machines in Sedalia to purchase permit stickers to be displayed on their machines, City License Inspector Bob Brown said Tuesday.

Brown indicated earlier he will begin inspecting machines Wednesday to determine if owners have complied with his order to purchase the appropriate stickers for their machines or face confiscation of the machines.

While earlier indicating all machines would be immediately confiscated, Brown later said he will send all offenders a 10-day notice before picking the machines up.

The accident occurred miles east of the Bates City interchange.

Symphony's premier lives up to an early prediction

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Conductor Abe Rosenthal remarked recently that this year's version of the Sedalia Symphony Orchestra would be one of the finest ever, owing to the orchestra's greater depth of orchestration. Monday night's premiere performance of the 1973-74 season proved him to be an able prophet.

Complemented, but not overshadowed, by the superb guest performance of Cantor Murray Hochberg, St. Louis, the orchestra performed flawlessly its opening selection, the overture to the opera "Der Freischutz," by Carl von Weber.

The pastoral tranquility of the opening segment was effectively conveyed by the French horns and string section. The succeeding ominous tone of apprehension by the opera hero was signaled by the booming drum and steady string movement, with the ending sense of jubilation exuberantly represented by the entire orchestra.

Easily making the transition from German romantic opera to American folk music, the orchestra's rendition of "The Arkansas Traveler" was delightfully entertaining. While the special arrangement was as colorful as an old-fashioned Arkansas hoe down, it retained a sense of orchestrated complexity containing several surprises.

Continuing its trans-world excursion, the orchestra next visited China, in the first part of the suite, "Streets of Peking," by Henry Hadley. The staccato-like, cymbaled style of traditional Oriental music succumbed, in this composition, to a more swaying mood. The Oriental influence was still there, but in a more subdued and original manner.

Guest Artist Hochberg, cantor of the United Hebrew Temple in St. Louis, filled the auditorium with his soaring tenor renditions of traditional Jewish religious music. Recalling the soul-inspiring faith of the ancient Jewish people, with "Lord, God of Abraham," Hochberg then moved on to the lighter "A Dudele-Thou," which reflected, he said, a love of all life.

Particularly interesting was his introduction to the number "Yerushalayim Shel Zahov" ("Jeruselum, City of Peace"). This song, he explained, attained its greatest popularity in the aftermath of the 1967 Arab-Israeli conflict, which he described as "an unfortunate incident, only to be repeated this year."

Although enthusiastically greeting Hochberg's performance of traditional Jewish songs, the audience, it seemed, was most pleased with his rendition of numbers from the popular Broadway musical and movie, "Fiddler on the Roof," which depicted yet another incident in his people's history . . . Russian occupation of Jewish lands at the turn of the century.

With his expressive voice and stage prancing Hochberg convincingly re-created "Tevye," the hero of the Sholom Aleichem Tales and Jerome Robbins musical. He was particularly triumphant in depicting Tevye's wistful exuberance in "If I Were a Rich Man."

Called back for an encore performance, Hochman treated his audience to what he described as "a sermon in song" — George Gershwin's "It Ain't Necessarily So," from "Porgy and Bess."

Concluding the evening's performance, the symphony performed a medley of songs from the Rogers and Hammerstein musical, "The Sound of Music."

Board plans election for new member

A public meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to elect a new representative to the Pettis County area board of the Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corporation (MVHRDC), according to Bob Schultz, executive director.

The meeting will be at the MVHRDC's Manpower office on the second floor of the Chamber of Commerce building at 113 East Fourth.

Schultz said the election will fill a vacancy of one of two board members representing low income persons in the county. Schultz added that any person 18-years-old or older and a resident of the county is eligible to vote at the meeting.

Schultz said the vacancy was created when the previous board member, Anna Lee Ray, moved from Sedalia.

Other board members are: Ralph Lee and William Giles, both representing public officials; and Myrtle Griggs, representing low income persons. Two other vacancies also exist, one for a person representing business and another for a person representing religion. Schultz said efforts are under way to find persons from those two areas to serve on the board.

Plan film program

A program of experimental films will be presented at 8 o'clock today at State Fair Community College as part of the Artist and Lecture series at the school. The program includes nine short films and will last from 8 to 9:30 p.m. at the Student Union. It is open to the public.

How to have an old-fashioned Halloween

By MARY LOU VOSSMEYER
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

An evening of old songs around a bonfire is only part of an old-fashioned Halloween. In fact, there are several Halloween traditions that, like other holidays, have become lost in the shuffle of commercialism.

But Mrs. Mary Jett, 1410 East Fifth, is one who will not let the past slip by so quickly. She still enjoys an old-fashioned Halloween with her grandchildren and has preserved, since childhood, an abundant treasure of Halloween ideas.

According to Mrs. Jett, a Halloween log is one of the first ingredients for an old-fashioned holiday. It can be any shape or size, but pieces of driftwood tend to fit the Halloween mood best because they come in strange shapes.

The piece of wood is painted Halloween colors — orange and black. Cardboard cats, owls or bats are easy to make and can be perched atop the log. Once your log is complete, it deserves an honored place of decoration on your front porch, along with the traditional jack-o-lantern and scarecrow.

Another way to decorate your yard with eery paraphanalia is to tie tin cans to tree branches. If you let them rattle in the wind "it creates a very wierd sound," Mrs. Jett said.

A small bonfire with roasted hot dogs and marshmallows are a must for an old-fashioned Halloween party. However, on rainy evenings, a fireplace will do.

Mrs. Jett added that when he was a youngster ears of corn were placed in the ashes of the fire and left there to cook slowly.

No old-time Halloween could be complete without a bubbling caldron of witches' brew. Mrs. Jett's recipe calls for equal parts of apple cider, grape juice and tomato juice.

"It has a tickly tangy taste," Mrs. Jett said, "kind of like that V-8 juice . . . but you don't want to use the hard cider because that can make you drunk."

One of the "tricks" that highlight an old-fashioned Halloween is to make two batches of fudge — one with sugar and the other with salt. Then put the pieces together on the same plate and see who gets the salty fudge.

For Mrs. Jett, one of 14 children, Halloween was a family affair, and trick-or-treating, aswe know it today, was unheard of in rural Sedalia.

"But we used to have a front yard dance . . . and Mama would dress up and scare us to death," she said.

Bobbing for apples is another traditional Halloween game that will delight youngsters. Use a large tub or bucket, filled with water. Put the apples in so they cover the water's surface. The fewer apples used, the more difficult it is to win. It's also a good idea to use warm water because most players end up with wet heads.

Just about any Halloween party can easily become an old-fashioned fling if you put a little of your own personality into it, Mrs. Jett said.

"If you put yourself in it . . . something home-made is such a treasure," she added.

Scarecrow scene

To give Halloween a touch of yesteryear, Paul Albin, 1807 Lafayette, put together this old-fashioned scene, complete with scarecrow, corn stalks and gourds. Scott Albin, 5, and Kathy McLendon, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McLendon, 1805 Lafayette, have befriended Mr. Scarecrow and decided to let him in on their plans for Halloween.

Lobbyist urges women to become involved in politics

BOSTON (AP) — Roberta Benjamin describes her field as "one of those slightly scary things associated with power in this society and thus alien to most women."

Ms. Benjamin is a lobbyist. She is also a woman — a wife and mother of three.

"The cold marble of the State House and the endless rabbit holes, labyrinth of corridors, locked ladies' rooms and pictures and portraits of males everywhere send out the not so subtle message that this is not a place for women," she said.

"We must overcome this feeling and learn how to control our lives and the processes which influence our lives."

The range of pending legislation in Massachusetts is broad enough to interest every woman, Ms. Benjamin said, pointing to proposals on maternity leave, equal pay, equal educational opportunity, day care, child care, health, taxes, property rights, divorce laws and abortion.

As chairperson of both the Woman's Lobby and the Legislative Task Force of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women, Ms. Benjamin is urging more women to become involved in lobbying.

She has sent a message to more than 300 women's groups — ranging from the Mothers of Twins Clubs to the Women's Political Caucus — to meet with her at the State House to formulate some lobbying strategy for 1974.

The 33-year-old Ms. Benjamin has three rules of thumb for lobbyists.

The first is to refuse to be intimidated, remembering that legislators and State House personnel are human beings subject to the same strengths and weaknesses as everyone else.

Her second suggestion is to always be well-informed on pending legislation and the legislators that must be dealt with.

The third rule is to learn technique. The best method, she said, is to visit a legislator twice — once to make an appointment and leave a fact sheet if possible and again to discuss the measure. With thousands of bills up for consideration, Ms. Benjamin feels it is very important to give as many "gentle reminders" as possible to legislators on bills being lobbied.

Ms. Benjamin is a graduate of Radcliffe College and has been accepted at Harvard Law School for the fall. She is a former president of the Eastern Massachusetts chapter of the National Organization for Women.

Polly's pointers

Are slip covers fit to elephants?

By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I would like to make some pine needle pillows. I hope one of the girls can tell me if one uses fresh green needles or the fallen brown ones. Thank you. — DOROTHEA.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the manufacturers of readymade slip covers for furniture. I have bought my last one. Along with such covers come a brochure with every available style of sofa or chair meticulously drawn so the buyer is led to believe she is buying a slip cover to FIT her furniture. At best the most expensive ones look like sheets draped over the back end of an elephant. One sales clerk agreed with me that they are a waste of material and money which I think they are indeed. — FRANKIE.

Buy shoes that really fit

Probably the biggest mistake most people make when they buy shoes is buying ones that hurt in the store, then expecting the hurt to go away after the shoes are worn a while. It usually doesn't happen. Shoes you have to "break in" will more than likely break you, leaving blisters, corns, and what have you as a memory. Here are tips to help you keep the "ouch" out of the shoes you buy from here on in.

✔ Don't buy shoes after you've walked all day. Your feet are swollen after a day of walking and you will never get a perfect fit.

✔ Don't count on shoes stretching much after you buy them. Sometimes they will, but most times the amount of stretch won't compensate for shoes that are tight.

✔ In general, suede "gives" somewhat more than smooth-grain leather, but don't even buy suede shoes that are really too tight.

✔ Always wear the kind of stockings or socks you plan to wear with new shoes when you buy them. If you're buying clogs to wear with thick bulky socks, that's what you should wear in the store; sheer stockings will give you an entirely different fit.

✔ Check fit carefully when you buy the new higher chunky heels. They tend to push your feet forward and you may need a half size larger. Try your regular size and a half size larger and decide which feels better.

✔ Remember that size varies. You may not always be a 6B, so don't buy it just because it's "your size." Try another size if a shoe is uncomfortable, and judge the shoe by how it feels, not by what size it is.

✔ Don't hesitate to ask for a spot stretch. Clogs may need some stretching across the instep, other shoes may pinch only in the toe box and so on. An innersole is a possibility if a shoe is slightly loose. Since the trend is to consolidate sizes, you're seeing less of AA, A, B, C and more of narrow, medium or wide, so adjustments may be in order. Be sure to find out if you'll have to buy the shoes after they're worked on. Adding an innersole usually is reversible, but stretching is not and you may be obliged to buy. Don't even suggest changes if the shoes aren't basically comfortable.

✔ Once you've gotten your new shoes, keep them in "new shape" longer by using shoe trees, and occasionally spraying them (when off your feet) with a protective substance or one that is water repellant. Spraying is especially good for suede shoes.

Ann Landers

Teenager regrets shoplifting attempt

Dear Ann Landers: Today I did something I could kill myself for. I was walking through a bookstore and spotted a book on sex. I am only 15 years old and was sure they wouldn't sell it to me so I slipped it under my jacket and walked out of the store.

The minute I got on the street I felt a hand on my shoulder. It was the store manager. He asked to see the sales slip for the book. I knew I was caught. He "invited" me to come to his office, asked for my name, address and phone number. I begged him not to call the police or my parents. He said, "All right, if you promise never to shoplift again, we'll keep it between the two of us." I took an oath on my life. He said, "I believe you."

Ann, when I think of how close I came to wrecking myself over a rotten $1.95 book I could just die. How lucky I was that the manager was so understanding. Please print this letter for every kid out there who has ever toyed with the idea of lifting. It's a bummer — a real bummer. — Lucky Fool

Dear Lucky: Good letter. Good advice. Thanks for sharing.

Dear Ann Landers: As an amateur astrologer in my fifth year of study, I am accustomed to hearing people who know absolutely nothing about the subject tell me what a lot of garbage it is. These individuals are completely devoid of any knowledge of such elementary things as the 12-house system, the 10 planetary influences, lunar cycles, and so on. They feel they are eminently qualified to deride an art that dates back to the time of the Chaldeans.

In the face of such presumptuous arrogance, the only answer that seems to quiet the vehement clods is a quote from Sir Isaac Newton, who was a prominent astrologer in addition to his other pursuits. When asked why a man of his intelligence and scientific accomplishment believed in such "disreputable nonsense," he replied, "Because I have studied the matter. You have not."

Thank you for equal time, Ann. — Sun In The Ninth House

Dear Sun: Several readers have written to say, "A plague on all your houses," but I am not so quick to pass judgment on a subject that has so many supporters. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I married a man my parents didn't like. I was sure I could change him and that he would be the perfect husband. He had been married twice before and swore that he had learned from his past mistakes. Immediately after the wedding he got into a big argument with my dad. He was drunk and struck my father with his fist. Dad told him never to come into the house again. I said, "That means me, too. Goodbye."

When our child was born I never let my folks know. Dad died the following month without ever seeing his only grandson. I went to his funeral and nearly collapsed when I saw how old and frail my mother had grown in only two years. I was sure I had contributed to it.

My husband left me for another woman a few months later. I am back home now, living with my mother, trying my best to make up for the lost years, but it can't be done. Never. — Olive Branch Withered

What about claustrophobia?

Dear Dr. Lamb — I suffer from claustrophobia (I think). I get panicky and feel faint if I am locked in any place, such as an elevator. I won't ride a bus because I can't get out when I want to. I always thought that claustrophobia was caused from close places, but even if I am in a large department store, bank, etc., and they lock the doors I am horrified.

I would love to fly to Hawaii, or any place, but am afraid of getting in a plane, even though they are large, because I will be locked in. I feel as if I can't breathe. Some have told me that I could fly if I took a tranquilizer, a sleeping pill, or went to a psychiatrist just once could help.

Could you please give me any advice. I feel like a prisoner not being able to do these common things that most people do every day. I am 50 years old and have had claustrophobia for at least 30 years, and it is getting worse.

Dear Reader — The exact label for your phobia doesn't make that much difference. Phobias can be related to multiple situations, heights, open spaces, animals, autos or various objects. The important point is that they are all manifestations of anxiety.

Phobias are usually modified fears of some situation in childhood. Whatever caused the original fear is replaced by something else and that something is the phobia. The problem that confronts the psychiatrist is the proper relating of the phobia to the real underlying fear, the unmasking of the real problem.

A good example is a widely quoted case of Freud's. A little boy he called Hans wanted the undivided love of his mother and wanted to eliminate his father as a rival for her love. This is not uncommon. Hans' natural response was guilt about his feelings toward his father and fear of what his father would do to him for this.

The anxiety provoked by this situation resulted in two phobias. He was afraid of open spaces and afraid of horses. Both enabled him to stay indoors close to his mother. The horse was a displacement of his fear of his father, the horse representing the masculine father figure. Being afraid of horses then made it possible for him to tolerate his father in the house without unreasonable fear. This may give you an idea of how difficult it is for a person to unravel the real dynamics of phobias and their meaning without professional help.

Some tranquilizer medications can be used to help temporarily in anxiety situations, including phobias, but they are only temporary help at best. Professional help is usually indicated, not just to unmask the real underlying fear, but facing the true villain that has provoked the problem. Obviously, if the problem is so important to a person's psyche that it had to be camouflaged, it is not an easy problem for the person to cope with, and it usually takes quite some time to significantly resolve it.

Magazine agrees to recall

NEW YORK (AP) — National Lampoon has agreed to recall 135,000 unsold copies of a special edition that contained a false Volkswagen advertisement making light of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's 1969 accident on Chappaquiddick.

The recall was part of a settlement Monday with Volkswagen of America, Inc., which agreed to drop a $30 million damage suit. The car company had called the ad "coarse, insensitive and cruel."

A passenger in Kennedy's car, Mary Jo Kopechne, drowned four years ago when a car in which they were riding plunged off a narrow bridge into a creek on Chappaquiddick, near Martha's Vineyard in Massachusetts.

In an intended spoof, the satirical magazine copied a legitimate Volkswagen ad that showed one of its cars afloat in a purported demonstration of its airtight construction.

The magazine said in its text of the ad: "Poor Teddy. If he'd been smart enough to buy a Volkswagen he never would have gotten into hot water."

The ad also said Kennedy would be president today if he had been driving a Volkswagen.

Nov. 15 was the target date set for the recall of the 135,000 copies, less than one-third the number distributed throughout the United States and Canada, according to the court papers.

National Lampoon also agreed to destroy the printing plates and to publish an editorial statement in its next edition referring to the settlement.

Airlines lays off over 500 of its employes

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The shortages of jet fuel has forced Trans World Airlines to place more than 500 employes on unpaid furlough beginning Dec. 1, a company spokesman says.

Internationally the move will affect about 100 pilots and flight engineers, 303 hostesses and stewards and about 100 ground personnel.

The spokesman, Jerry Cosley of the public relations office, said he understood TWA to be the first major airline to place employes on furlough because of the fuel shortage.

TWA also has terminated 30 domestic flights, he said, and "we have to admit there might be still more. The situation is still very fluid."

Of the major languages now current, Chinese has the most users — more than 780 million, the National Geographic Society says. English is next, with some 320 million.

Aluminum is recycled

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Aluminum recycling programs are "growing by leaps and bounds" and may make the metal one of the cheapest to use, Reynolds Metals Co. officials say.

Richard N. Bolling, manager of Reynolds' recycling division, said Monday his company's recycling activity now produces as much aluminum as if the company had built a new potline, a row of electrolytic cells used in the production of the metal.

Speaking at a meeting on aluminum recycling, he said the process costs but a fraction of a potline and uses only 5 per cent of the power required to produce an equal amount of primary aluminum.

The aluminum industry has been under fire for its high electrical consumption as the Northwest enters the winter with power reservoirs far below normal.

T.E. Feagin, director of marketing for the division, said that while it takes as much as three times the electricity to make a pound of aluminum as it does to make a pound of steel, it takes about a third less of the lightweight metal to make one can.

Bolling and Feagin said that although the aluminum recycling effort was instituted under pressure by environmentalists concerned with can litter, pilot programs found that environmental concern alone wasn't enough to get public cooperation.

Bail bondsman is convicted and sentenced

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A bail bondsman has been convicted of perjury and sentenced to five years in prison.

Milton (Zip) Walton was sentenced in St. Louis Circuit Court Monday after being convicted of giving false testimony to a grand jury investigating alleged ticket-fixing in city traffic courts.

Walton had testified that he had never taken money for disposing of a traffic ticket.

Two suspended deputy city marshals, John DiLiberto and Tom Wright, were indicted by the grand jury on ticket-fixing charges last year and are currently awaiting trial.

Vietnam war hero arraigned on drug charge

PETALUMA, Calif. (AP) — A Vietnam war hero who won the nation's highest medal has been arraigned on four counts of selling cocaine.

Richard A. Penry, 24, described by authorities as a major cocaine dealer, appeared Monday before Municipal Court Judge Alexander McMahon who scheduled another hearing Nov. 5 for Penry and codefendant David B. Lane.

Penry, a former Army sergeant, was awarded the Medal of Honor on July 15, 1971, for "conspicuous gallantry" in saving the life of his wounded company commander and almost single-handedly stopping an enemy attack in Bihn Tuy Province.

Six days were suitable for work in fields

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri farmers made good progress on their seasonal schedules last week with six days suitable for field work.

Corn harvesting showed the greatest lag compared to last year. In the week that ended Saturday, 31 per cent of the crop had been taken from the fields, compared with 47 per cent a year earlier.

Thirty-three per cent of the soybean crop was harvested last week alone, bringing to 52 per cent the proportion harvested, which is the same amount harvest last year at the corresponding time.

Grain sorghum harvesting was 49 per cent complete, compared with 56 per cent last year, and the cotton crop was halfway completed. Forty-three per cent of the cotton was in last year at about the same time.

High-handed veto of federal funds

The federal government is withholding half a million dollars in school aid from Missouri because the Department of Education has chosen to abide by its interpretation of the state Constitution.

At issue are federal Title III funds, earmarked for setting up "innovative" educational programs in the schools. Missouri was due to receive $2.5 million in such funds for the current fiscal year.

The state had been providing Title III services to non-public school students, but only after regular school hours. (Under this practice it was thought that the Missouri constitutional bar against aid to private and religious schools was not being violated, since the "student," instead of the "school," received the aid—the so-called "child benefit" theory.)

But last Thursday the U.S. Office of Education announced that $500,000 was being cut out of the Missouri budget, to be funneled directly to private and parochial schools to fund programs in 14 of the 47 Missouri Title III projects found to be in "noncompliance."

Yet there are only 1,650 non-public school students involved in the 14 districts in question, which would hardly justify a $500,000 penalty to the state.

Beyond the unfairness of the cutback in funds, however, is the much larger principle that is being done violence by Washington's high-handed methods. Federal and state constitutional prohibitions against public aid to religious institutions apparently are taking a definite back set to Washington's ideas on education.

The U.S. Supreme Court seems to take a different view of such matters. In a series of recent decisions it has struck down numerous forms of parochiaid in several states, and recently consented to hear the state's appeal in a Title I case very similar to what is at issue here under Title III.

President Nixon has taken the lead in trying to repeal the nation's time-honored principles concerning the separation of church and state. This is a curious thing, coming as it does from one who prides himself on being a "strict constructionist."

"Didn't You Used to Be the 97 Pound Weakling?"

Federal stockpiles of opium are huge

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The federal government, believe it or not, is America's biggest opium trafficker. The authorities are quietly planning to unload hundreds of tons of the addictive drug from the secret hiding places beside the gold at Fort Knox and elsewhere.

Actually, the government opium peddling is all on the up and up. Besides being the source of the killer drug heroin, opium is also refined into the useful pain-killers morphine and codeine. The United States began building up an opium stockpile after World War II.

At the beginning of this year, there were 634 tons of opium in the stockpile, mostly refined into opium gum, morphine sulphate and codeine. Simultaneously, a bad opium crop in India created a codeine and morphine shortage.

Thus, the United States decided a good deal of the federal opium stash could be sold off for medical purposes and Congress is now considering approval of the sale to private industry.

Meanwhile according to classified information from the Justice Department, the opium is under 24-hour guard at Fort Knox (its derivatives are worth more than gold), at West Point (well away from any curious cadets) and at a naval supply depot in New Jersey, among other sites.

The precautions by the federal government are wise: A huge heroin cache in the custody of the New York police was recently stolen from under their noses by big-league drug traffickers.

BEBE'S BRIDGE: Charles G. (Bbe) Rebozo, President Nixon's best friend, is planning to develop an island near Key Biscayne that has long been a point of controversy.

The teardrop-shaped island, called Fisher's, is located between the southern tip of Miami Beach and Virginia Key, an adjunct to Key Biscayne. For years, Rebozo and other Fisher's Island Inc. stockholders have sought construction of a causeway to provide access to their property. Each attempt has been blocked by angry citizens.

We have now learned, however, that Rebozo and his fellow investors have commissioned an architectural firm to draw up plans for an urban community on Fisher's.

Under the directions given Simonds and Simonds, Pittsburgh architects who specialize in environmental design, the island will have no circulating vehicles other than buses and golf carts.

John Simonds of the firm admitted to us that, at Rebozo's orders, the planning is well underway and a preliminary rendering will be completed by the end of the year.

The few people who work on the island were surprised when we asked them about development of the sandspit, which is largely covered with pine. Since local authorities have been reluctant to build the causeway to the island, the success of the venture thus may depend on whether the Nixon administration lends the Rebozo group a federal helping hand with the causeway construction.

NIXON BUGGED: President Nixon, the nation's most famous recorder of private conversations, was himself secretly recorded by a California editor two years ago in an embarrassing conversation.

At the time, Interior Secretary Rogers Morton had announced proudly that he personally had decided to ban two new oil rigs from the pollution-plagued Santa Barbara channel. Under federal court decisions, it is the interior secretary, and no one else, who can decide on such bans.

But at a press reception, Santa Barbara News-Press editor Paul Veblen began to question Nixon searchingly about who really ordered the ban on the rig platforms. Nixon astonishingly, claimed he, not Morton, did it. Unknown to the President, Veblen's pocket tape recorder was producing this verbatim record of Nixon's admission:

"Oh, we had him (Morton) make the announcement. But I made the decision. I made the decision. But he made the announcement. (In a lower voice) You know, really, they take a lot of heat. So I told Morton, I told him, I said, Rog, you go out there and make the announcement. But I, of course, made the decision, (Nixon chuckles). But give him the credit."

Morton got the credit, but now Nixon is getting the headaches. The big oil companies are trying to show the Morton decree was illegal, in part because Nixon, not Morton, really ordered it. And the tape could become a vital part of their arguments.

A conservative view

Moving day for writer

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

SCRABBLE, Va. — Several days ago a massive moving van lumbered away from the town house I have occupied in Alexandria these past six years, and brought six tons of stuff to my home here in the Blue Ridge Mountains. I mark the occasion as my last remove, save one.

Kilpatrick

Life is always a process of endings and beginnings, all flowing together, but the act of moving from one domicile to another has particular meaning. Like graduation, or marriage, or the birth of a child, or death in the family, moving is a pivot point. Nothing is exactly the same thereafter.

So my wife and I spent two days packing up the Alexandria place, musing as we always do on such occasions on the amount of sheer junk that somehow accumulates. They say that a love of property is rooted in the conservative philosophy, but a love for jelly glasses? Souvenirs of Atlantic City? Last year's Congressional Record? Eighty-two wire coat hangers? Like mountain climbers, we traversed a terminal moraine of shirt cardboards, broken pencils, and fountain pens beyond repair. Out with them all)!

Now work begins anew in the office that Peter Kramer designed and Joe Williams built, at the end of the stone walk that Joe Caliandro laid. These are the craftsmen we have lived with over the past three months. They created a book man's dream come true — shelves and shelves and shelves above a wainscot, and paneled cupboards to conceal new junk below.

We sit tailor-legged on the floor, reveling in the rediscovery of books that had been half forgotten: fat books of essays, slim books of poems, books on the Congress, books on the presidency, books on education and foreign affairs and the writing art. One whole section is set aside for Supreme Court opinions. How worn are the years of John Marshall! How little touched are the others!

After a time, discouraged by the leaning towers of books, we go outside for a breath of autumn. This year has produced a slow ending and beginning. The trees have turned imperceptibly day by day, with little of the flaming brilliance we marked a year ago. Our hills are mostly garnet and topaz and jade: fine stones in their way, but not much to dazzle the eye.

Even so, autumn in the Blue Ridge is always a weaver's bazaar. It is as if some master maker of rugs had flung his works across the hills in prodigal display. When we walk toward Woodville, we walk through tapestried halls; live quail and bounding rabbits emerge from God's own warp and woof.

The ending and beginning are more personal than professional. I will be in Washington several days a week, making the rounds, talking with sources, covering a newsman's beat. It is a 90-minute drive, and no big thing. But there will be no doubt hereafter about where home is and where the books are. Home is here in the hills, looking toward Red Oak Mountain, and the books are just at the end of Caliandro's walk.

This move to the hills — still speaking professionally — is motivated by a need I have felt with increasing urgency over the past two years. Every editorial writer will know what I mean. It is a need for perspective, for the vision that keeps foreground, middle distance and background in orderly arrangement. Washington offers everything but perspective; the city is exciting, fascinating, stimulating, and exhausting, but it is a poor place for thinking.

The line blurs between endings and beginnings. Love affairs, school years, jobs, retirements — these often are remembered in a context of terminations. Yet they bring beginnings, new routines, fresh outlooks, other occupations. I open the windows of the new office and look to the time ahead, and see that it is good.

(Mr. Kilpatrick is taking a week's vacation to pick up his books. His column will resume when he gets them off the floor.)

Art Buchwald

The royal line of succession

WASHINGTON — Because of all the talk about impeachment and resignation, this country has suddenly taken a very careful look at the succession of the President of the United States.

Buchwald

According to the Constitution, as interpreted by the White House, only male heirs may succeed the President if for some reason he cannot carry out his duties. This eliminates Julie Eisenhower and Tricia Cox.

The nearest male heir to take over the Presidency would be Mr. Nixon's brother, Donald, the Prince of Marriott as he is known at court. Donald is much more of a free spirit than his brother Richard.

Since he never thought he would ever assume the throne, Don has devoted himself more to the restaurant business, but people at the White House believe he would be a fair and honest ruler if duty called.

Next in line of succession would be Edward Nixon, the President's youngest brother, a dashing young aristocrat known as the Duke of Seattle. Edward has served his brother on very important missions including picking up cash from the President's loyal subjects when no one else could be trusted with the job. Unlike his brothers, Edward has managed to stay out of the limelight, and it is not certain if he would have the mass appeal of Donald, who knows Howard Hughes personally.

After Edward comes President Nixon's nephew, Donald Jr., known as Bonnie Prince Don to distinguish him from his father. There has been some talk that Donald Sr. might step aside and persuade his brother Edward to give up rights to the throne, so his son, Bonnie Prince Don, could be crowned President.

Bonnie Prince Don, though still a young man, has had great experience in international relations working for Count Robert Vesco who was exiled to Costa Rica when he got into financial difficulties with the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The one problem of Bonnie Prince Don's assuming the presidency is that he is too young to serve, and a regent would have to be appointed to run the affairs of the country.

The nobleman most talked about to serve as regent is Bebe Rebozo who holds the title of the Duke of Biscayne.

The duke is probably the closest intimate of the Nixon family, and has served the President by administering the vast land holdings that the Nixons have accumulated in the last five years.

But after Bonnie Prince Don, there are no more male heirs in line for the presidency.

Therefore, someone would have to be found outside the Nixon family.

This might cause a great deal of consternation throughout the country, because it would be hard for anyone to agree on a President that did not come from the Nixon royal bloodline of succession.

There is some talk of changing the Constitution so that Julie Eisenhower could inherit the role in case her father abdicates, but the male chauvinists in Parliament have said they would never allow it.

A compromise candidate if none of the Nixon heirs could serve is Paul Delisle, the maitre d'hotel at the Sans Souci restaurant.

While he has no royal blood, he has served the aristocracy of Washington in and out of court for many years.

The country has never had a maitre d'hotel as President before, but the way things are going, many people have indicated they would be willing to give it a try.

O.J. picks up 157 yards

Simpson, Bills handle Kansas City Chiefs

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — O.J. Simpson was nearing the 1,000-yard mark, rushing that is, and Joe Ferguson said, "The guys in the huddle got all excited."

"Let's block for him," the rookie quarterback of the Buffalo Bills said they shouted, making it difficult for Ferguson to call the next play.

O.J. took the ball and reached 1,000 yards.

"Let's get him some more," his teammates shouted again, Ferguson said, as they once again huddled.

Well, they did. Simpson, the All-American Heisman Trophy winner from Southern California, reeled off 157 yards Monday night in the Bills' 23-14 National Football League upset of the Kansas City Chiefs. His season total to date: 1,025 yards.

The output is a seven-game NFL record, 54 yards more than Jim Brown posted for the Cleveland Browns in 1963. Simpson set another mark, carrying 39 times in the nationally televised game and eclipsing by one the number of carries by Harry Newman in 1934 and Jim Nance in 1966.

"I really don't think about records," Simpson said in the dressing room. "Instead you've got to run and that's what I'm doing. You don't run for records. You just run and the records come."

But Simpson, pointing to Brown's single-season high of 1,863 yards, seemed to be kidding.

"We got 1,000 in the first seven games and we'll go for another 1,000 in the next seven."

The "we" referred to by Simpson were his teammates, especially the young, aggressive offensive line which has been paving the way for his ground-gaining.

For Coach Lou Saban, it was a big game.

"We had to win one pretty quick."

The Bills did just that.

Buffalo kicked off, the Chiefs missed on a pass and then fumbled and the Bills recovered on the Chiefs' 15.

Simpson carried the ball four consecutive times, scoring from the one-yard line.

The Bills kicked off again. On the Chiefs' third play, Linebacker Jim Cheyunski intercepted Len Dawson's pass, returned it 31 yards and Simpson scored from the four. Time: 3:37.

Buffalo iced the game with three field goals. John Leypoldt booted them from 31, 17 and 8 yards.

Kansas City Coach Hank Stram described the game as "incredible."

"We reduced the size of the field to 15 yards the first time we had the ball (when Buffalo recovered the fumble) and four yards the second time (Cheyunski's interception)," he said.

"Any time you're playing a squad that is in an emotional frenzy like Buffalo was—and motivated by their fans—and you give two touchdowns away at bat, you're in trouble."

The Chiefs' two touchdowns followed Buffalo mistakes. Ferguson's fumbled on his 43 and four plays later the chief's Wendell Hayes scored from one yard out.

Punter Spike Jones dropped a fourth down snap in the fourth period and the Chiefs got the ball on Buffalo's two. Quarterback Pete Beathard sneaked into the end zone.

Right on schedule

Buffalo Bills' running back O.J. Simpson (32) goes in between Kansas City's Willie Lanier (63) and Curley Culp (61) for a seven-yard gain during the second half of Monday night's NFL clash in Buffalo. Simpson scored two first-quarter touchdowns and ran for 157 yards to push his season's total past 1,000 in the first half of the season. Simpson's performance gave him 1,025 and kept him on the pace to break Jim Brown's NFL single-season rushing record of 1,863 yards. Buffalo handled the Chiefs, 23-14. (UPI)

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

High-flying Ohio State remains in a holding pattern above the rest of America's college football teams—holding onto No. 1 in the weekly Associated Press poll.

The Buckeyes, 60-0 winners over Northwestern this past weekend, piled up 36 first-place votes and 1,148 total points Monday from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

It was the fifth straight week for Ohio State in the No. 1 position. The Buckeyes held a slim lead over Alabama, No. 2 with 1,052 points.

The Crimson Tide, which crushed Virginia Tech 77-6, collected 12 of the 62 first-place votes supplied this week.

The rest of the top four teams stayed firm with No. 3 Oklahoma pulling down nine first place votes and 961 points and No. 4 Michigan with one first-place ballot and 876 points.

Oklahoma walloped Kansas State 56-14 and Michigan routed Minnesota 34-7 over the weekend.

Notre Dame replaced Penn State as the No. 5 team after beating Southern California 23-14 and virtually ruining the Trojan's chances of repeating as national champion.

The Fighting Irish, seeking their first national title since 1966, moved up from No. 8 with 754 points. Undefeated Penn State dropped one place to No. 6 despite overwhelming West Virginia 62-14 for its seventh straight victory this year.

The Nittany Lions were favored for No.1 by four voters.

Louisiana State also stayed unbeaten through seven with a 33-29 victory over South Carolina that boosted the Tigers from ninth to seventh. They had 518 points.

Arizona State made the Top Ten for the first time this year, moving from No. 11 to No. 8 by routing Oregon State 44-14. Southern Cal, No. 6 last week, dropped to No. 9 and just nosed out crosstown rival UCLA for that spot.

The Trojans had 331 points to 307 for No. 10 UCLA.

The remaining ranked teams this week include: No. 11 Tennessee; No. 12 Missouri; No. 13 Nebraska; No. 14 Tulane; No. 15 Texas Tech; No. 16 Miami (Ohio); No. 17 Colorado; No. 18 Houston and two teams tied for No. 19, Auburn and Texas.

College football wash

Keeping stats is a busy job

NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the college football wash:

Charley Thornton, sports information director at the University of Alabama, was so busy researching records during the Crimson Tide's 77-6 rout of Virginia Tech that he neglected to note the score.

"It took so much time to run through several record books — ours, the SEC's and the NCAA's — that I really wasn't watching the score," he said. "When the game ended, my phone rang and a guy wanted to know who had won. I told him Alabama. Then he asked me the score. I glanced at the scoreboard, but it was already off, so I had to ask what it was."

Thornton was still working on the game statistics Monday. And he found a five-yard run by Willie Shelby that hadn't been included in the Tide's originally announced total yardage. The new figures, both NCAA records, are 748 yards rushing and 833 in total offense.

Kansas State's Vince Gibson, a 56-14 Oklahoma victim, thinks the Sooners are better than the teams that finished second nationally the last two seasons.

"That triple option is the toughest thing I've seen yet," he said. "I said before the game Oklahoma was probably No.1 in the country. Now that we've played 'em, I know they are."

Minnesota Coach Cal Stoll refuses to compare the nation's powers after losing for the fourth time to a ranking team. The Gophers have bowed to Ohio State 56-7, Nebraska 48-7, Kansas 34-19 and last Saturday to Michigan 34-7.

But he did say that "when we played Michigan, we were a lot more prepared and a better team than when we played Ohio State in our opening game at Columbus. It's hard for me to predict the winner of a game between Ohio State and Michigan. One thing I do know, there won't be a lot of passing and it will be one of the hardest blocking and passing games ever played in the Big Ten."

Ohio State and Michigan square off Nov. 24 at Ann Arbor.

Southern California's 23-game unbeaten streak went down the drain Saturday ... and so did Guilford College's 32-game losing skein. The Guilford players celebrated by stuffing trainer Neil Welborne face down into a trash can full of ice used to chill cans of pop in the locker room.

Nebraska fans, remembering the explosive days of Johnny Rodgers and friends, are grumbling over the recent lack of offensive punch that has plagued Coach Tom Osborne's Cornhuskers.

The Omaha World-Herald noted a comment overheard in a Lincoln coffee shop:

"Thank God for Richard Nixon. He's keeping the heat off Tom Osborne."

Baseball Cardinals Deal minor leaguer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St Louis Cardinals have announced a trade of minor league pitchers with the Chicago White Sox.

The team said Monday that left-hander Jim Kremmel, 25, had been sent to the White Sox in exchange for right-hander Dennis O'Toole, 24, who has been playing for Chicago's Iowa farm club.

Last season O'Toole had a record of 4-1 with six saves as a reliever for the Iowa club.

Gary Davidson resigns top position in WHA

CHICAGO (AP) — A successor to Gary Davidson as president of the World Hockey Association is expected to be named within two months.

Davidson resigned at the WHA meeting Monday, saying "it would be impossible to combine both jobs"—and he wants to concentrate on his projected World Football League.

Davidson, 39, is leaving his resignation open-ended until the selection is made by a screening committee headed by Nick Mileti of the Cleveland Crusaders.

The WHA executive committee was increased to six members by the addition of Bill Hunter of the Edmonton Oilers and Howard Baldwin of the New England Whalers. Jordon Kaiser of the Chicago Cougars was named chairman.

James Browitt of Tustin, Calif., a WHA administrator, was given the title of executive director with "broader authority" and responsible to the executive committee.

3,000 ducks killed in Kansas hail storm

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — An unusual fall hail storm that hit Friday near here killed about 3,000 ducks and crippled many more, a federal game agent reported Monday.

Dave Purinton, the agent, said the dead birds were scattered over a 10-acre area near Inman, Kan., about 15 miles northeast of here. They were part of a flock of about 40,000 ducks, mostly pintails, that are concentrated in an area of flooded grain fields in the area.

Purinton said the ducks apparently rose in an effort to escape the hailstones, some reported to be an inch and one-half in diameter, and were knocked out of the air.

Crows and other predators were cleaning up the dead birds, he said, and many cripples had made their way to deep water where they are relatively safe. He said the cripples he had picked up did not have broken bones, only bruises, and probably would recover to fly again.

Several persons have been arrested for shooting or picking up crippled ducks, he said. Duck season will not reopen in the state until Nov. 10 and it is against the law to pursue or possess the cripples.

Young Cardinals battle odds

By BOB SHACKELFORD
Staff Sportswriter

LINCOLN — Lincoln's Cardinals will be trying to improve on their 4-19, 1972-73 mark, and third-year coach Rick Mills seems to think it is certainly possible. His thoughts are based on several underclassmen who got their initiation under fire by starting as freshmen last year. With a year's experience under their belts, Mills is hopeful of bigger and better things.

Two-time all-conference selection Ed Pickens is gone — and his last season's scoring average of 18 PPG has to be missed by the Redbirds, whose offensive output was lacking. To pick up the slack, Coach Mills has high hopes for 6-2 senior center Scott Nevius; two sophomores who started last season, 5-9 Rod Ingram and 5-10 Tracy Meuschke; and a transfer student from Colorado, 5-10 junior Jim Terrell. Terrell is reputed to be a good outside shooter, has fine quickness, and will log a lot of playing time.

The balance of the squad consists of seniors Mike Roark (5-10), David Ficken (5-9) and Wray Kauble (5-11); and sophomores David Aery (5-11), Joe Reser (5-8), and Mike Mullins (5-11).

Coach Mills believes Cole Camp could be a "sleeper" in the loop this season, but looks for Smithton and LaMonte to fight it out for top honors.

Concerning the Kaysinger teams and his own club, Mills had this to say. "This is one of the toughest Class S conferences in our area. My ball club is going to be young, they will probably make mistakes, but I am relying on aggressiveness and desire. We have a lot of young talent that could surprise people this year and will definitely be a contender in the future."

Seeded eighth in the Kaysinger Conference Tournament, the Redbirds look to be weak on the boards, and their scoring ability must improve.

Weaver out-polls Mckeon as manager of the year

NEW YORK (AP) — Patient Earl Weaver, who remodeled the Baltimore Orioles from a slow, slugging team into a fast, opportunistic club that recaptured the 1973 American League East Division pennant, was chosen today as AL Manager of the Year.

The stocky Weaver was a landslide winner in balloting conducted by The Associated Press before the playoffs and World Series. He earned 170 votes from sports writers and broadcasters in outpolling Jack McKeon of the Kansas City Royals, runnerup with 91 nominations.

Dick Williams, who left Oakland after directing the A's to the American League and World Series championships, finished third with 41 votes. Del Crandall of the Milwaukee Brewers was fourth with 12 votes.

Then came Frank Quilici of the Minnesota Twins, Ralph Houk of the Yankees, Bobby Winkles of the California Angels, Chuck Tanner of the Chicago White Sox, and Billy Martin, who piloted both Detroit and Texas, with one vote each. Tanner was last year's winner.

This is the first Manager of the Year honor for Weaver, although he directed the Orioles to three straight pennants and over 100 victories each year beginning in 1969.

After that string, Baltimore slipped to third in the AL East in 1972, but bounced back for its fourth East title in five years this season.

The Orioles, after a slow start, didn't pull away from the field until putting together a 14-game winning streak in late August.

Their 97-65 record gave Weaver a remarkable 543-337 mark for a .617 percentage since he replaced Hank Bauer as manager July 11, 1968.

The 43-year-old Weaver is convinced the future might be just as good. "I said earlier this year that our farm system has produced enough outstanding players for this team to win six division championships in the next 10 years," he said. "I see no reason to change my mind now."

The Orioles' resurgence this year was led by rookie speedsters Al Bumbry and Rich Coggins, both of whom hit over .300 and paced the club in stolen bases. Over-all, the team had a record eight players who stole 10 or more bases.

"Earl did an outstanding job this year after a somewhat disappointing start," said General Manager Frank Cashen after recently rehiring Weaver for the 1974 season at an estimated salary of $70,000.

"He put together a whole new blend of players and reshaped the club to fit the new talent so quickly," added Cashen. "Half of the players from our championship team of two years ago were gone and we didn't have the power we once did. We outhit every other Orioles' team that played here since 1954 and outran them, too."

Tiger of the week

In 1972, Paul Kostopolus saw double duty as a quarterback on offense and a defensive cornerback on defense. This year, however, Kostopolus has concentrated his efforts mostly in the Smith-Cotton Tigers' defensive backfield. "Paul has made super hits all year," said S-C coach Greg Cook Tuesday morning after he and the Tigers' coaching staff named the 165-pound senior the top hitter of the week for his efforts in Friday's 54-14 rout of Kansas City O'Hara. "Kostopolus can take about anyone one-on-one and come out the winner," Cook concluded.

Cousy fines Archibald for rapping teammates

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Nate Archibald, the superstar, the heart and soul of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, has had enough.

But expressing his frustrations about his team's last-place standing to sports writers — criticizing his teammates publicly — was too much for Coach Bob Cousy. He slapped Archibald with a fine of undisclosed amount.

"I'm not defending what Tiny said, but I think that he was frustrated from not having played and spoke without thinking of the situation," Cousy said.

The all-pro guard, out for three games with an injury to an Achilles tendon, played 20 minutes Sunday night in the Kings' 112-110 loss to the Buffalo Braves. His contribution to the losing cause was 10 points and six assists.

As any ship without a rudder, the Kings wandered in circles without Archibald. After seeing his teammates slip to a 4-5 record, Archibald complained, "I think that the team doesn't have any heart. If they aren't going to play basketball then they ought to go back to school."

What really irked Archibald concerned the 44-point performance of Buffalo's Bob McAdoo.

"When a guy scores (that many) points," he said, "half the team should have fouled out. I mean the man should be sore."

He continued, "I know when I've scored 40 points I felt it against teams like Chicago and Detroit. You've got to feel it when you get 40 points."

And then the deepest cut to the team of all:

"They don't have any pride."

Cousy and Archibald discussed the impromptu news conference before practice Monday and Archibald later spoke with the team. The content of his address was not disclosed.

Cousy, who's been juggling his manpower in desperate quest for victory in the absence of his superstar, said:

"I couldn't be mad at the team. In fact, after the game I told them that I thought they had put forth effort. It was just unfortunate that Tiny was injured and we lost Sam (Lacey) in that game, too."

Lacey suffered an ankle sprain.

Cousy completed negotiations with Houston Tuesday in an even-up swap of guards, sending off Matt Goukas for Jimmy Walker.

Padres hang in limbo

Time running out on San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The clock may be ready to strike midnight for San Diego's National League baseball franchise after the collapse of an 11th-hour purchase offer.

Mayor Pete Wilson said Monday the City Council had refused unanimously to approve terms of a new stadium lease sought by Marjorie L. Everett, leading stockholder in Hollywood Park Race Track.

"The interests of the baseball public had to be weighed against the interest of the taxpayers and the city could not go that far," said Wilson, one of the council's nine members.

He said two other groups have contacted him, one of local business interests and the other from out of town, and talked of trying to keep the Padres in San Diego.

Wilson didn't identify either group, but said, "obviously the same problem is going to exist for these groups as for Mrs. Everett."

Mrs. Everett's unexpected offer to buy part of the club and keep it in San Diego stalled a scheduled vote by National League club owners Oct. 5 on C. Arnholt Smith's proposal to sell the Padres to a Washington, D.C., group for $12 million.

The league gave the team 30 days to complete the deal.

But Mrs. Everett's attorneys failed to win council approval of modifications in the 20-year lease on city-owned San Diego Stadium. The lease has 15 years to run, and the council filed a $12-million suit against the Padres for breaking it after Smith announced his intention to sell.

Published reports said Mrs. Everett wanted higher percentage of stadium food and parking concessions, other subsidies, a shortened lease, and permission to leave San Diego if attendance doesn't increase from its present 600,000 annual average to 800,000.

The San Diego Union said money differences between the two sides were about $200,000.

"We were asking far less than Washington is willing to give the ball club," said Neil Papiano, Mrs. Everett's attorney. "Apparently the city would rather have its lawsuit than the Padres."

Howe scores in the crime fighting department

HOUSTON (AP) — Hockey superstar Gordie Howe has yet to score a goal in his new career with the World Hockey Association, but he's still fast on his feet.

As Howe and his wife, Colleen, drove up to a local hotel parking lot following Sunday night's game, Howe saw a young man snatch a girl's purse, jump in a car and drive away.

Howe took off in pursuit, finally forcing the thief to the curb with his own car. The thief tossed the purse out of the window and drove off.

Howe returned the purse to its owner, who was with her boyfriend.

"How can I ever thank you?" asked the girl's escort.

"Well, I'm a player with the Houston Aeros, how about attending some of our games?"

"I won't miss another one," promised the young man.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

If you always return the suit your partner has led you will do better than the man who never returns it, but you won't do nearly as well as the player who uses some judgment in the matter.

South won the first trick with his ace of spades; led a trump to dummy's ace and returned the nine of hearts.

This gave East quite a problem. Could South be void of hearts? Finally East came to the correct decision and went up with the ace. South followed with his jack and it was up to East to lead.

His first thought was to return his partner's suit. Then he paused to count tricks. It looked as if South had been dealt seven to eight clubs and the three good hearts in dummy made 11. East and West needed two quick tricks to save the game.

Could they be in spades? Not likely at all. West had made a vulnerable overcall on a suit headed by king-queen plus nothing better than the nine. He surely held at least five spades.

After that thought East led back his three of diamonds and West cashed two diamond tricks to set the contract.

Says wage-price controls should not be dropped now

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wage-price controls should be dropped, but not until the economy slows down a little and food prices stabilize, says the former head of the defunct Price Commission.

C. Jackson Grayson Jr., who headed the commission during its 14-month existence until it was disbanded in January, said now is not the time for the Nixon administration to junk controls.

"They can't afford to take them off right now," Grayson said in a telephone interview. "There would be such an explosion in prices that there would be a great demand for more stringent controls."

He said the public resistance would be so great that Congress might even legislate a price freeze, a policy tool he opposes to deal with the present price surge.

Grayson said he saw no chance that controls could be dropped this year but added, "hopefully, early next year, it will be possible. By then, I hope the food-price rises will have abated and the economy will have slowed down to give a little breathing room."

A slower economy usually means there is less pressure for price increases.

Grayson, who has returned to his economics post at Southern Methodist University, said he favored allowing the legal authority for wage-price controls to expire next April 30 because retaining it creates a temptation for continuing controls after their usefulness has expired.

That legal authority is contained in the Economic Stabilization Act, which expires next April 30. Unless Congress extends the power, wage-price controls will automatically end on that date.

Grayson said, however, there may be a tradeoff with Congress in which wage-price controls are formally abandoned, but standby authority for them is retained.

President Nixon has not announced whether he will seek an extension of the law, but his economic aides want to scrap wage-price controls as soon as inflation shows positive signs of cooling.

Grayson, who was in charge of Phase 2 of wage-price controls, said that wage-price restraints "can work for a limited period of time," as they did during Phase 2.

But now, he said, with the economy having gone through a boom and heavy demand present for commodities, price controls can do little to restrain inflation.

"At the first opportunity, they should remove them," Grayson said.

People in the news

WASHINGTON (AP) — "As you can see, I'm alive; I walked in under my own power."

That was Justice William O. Douglas's observation Monday when he met the press and announced he had no plans to retire. Douglas, 75, set a record Monday when he became the justice to have served the longest in the court's history.

The old tenure record was 34 years, 195 days, held by Justice Stephen Field who retired in 1897.

"My doctor says I'm in good condition. I have no plans to retire from the court," Douglas said.

Douglas noted that Oliver Wendell Holmes did much of his best work on the court after his 80th birthday. "That's not an implied threat that I'm going to stay that long," he added.

Douglas wears an electronic pacemaker in his chest, was accompanied at the news conference by his wife.

LONDON (AP) — Burglars have taken jewels and furs valued at $25,000 from the Chelsea apartment of actress Angela Lansbury. Miss Lansbury is starring here in the musical "Gypsy." Police said the burglary occured over the weekend.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Former Atty Gen. Ramsey Clark says U.S. Atty. James R. Thompson should be disbarred for calling former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew "a common crook."

Clark, speaking at a news conference here Monday, said fired Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox showed "great restraint and rare professional discipline." But he said that was in contrast with actions of "some of the people in the executive branch, including James Thompson."

Thompson, U.S. attorney for northern Illinois, represented the Justice Department in one phase of the Agnew case. At a news conference after Agnew resigned and pleaded no contest to tax evasion, he described Agnew as "a common crook" and said the nation was well off without him.

Clark said Thompson "tells us he's read the file on Spiro Agnew and that he's a common crook. That is such reprehensible conduct professionally that he ought to be disbarred. It should be a violation of law."

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace plans to undergo minor surgery Saturday, his seventh operation since May 1972 when he was shot by a would-be assassin in Laurel, Md.

Wallace, still paralyzed in both legs as a result of the shooting, will enter University Hospital in Birmingham on Friday, his office said Monday.

Wallace's office said the governor will undergo an external sphincterotomy, designed to improve his bladder function. There was no indication how long he would be hospitalized.

Accident has claimed sixth victim

KIRKWOOD, Mo. (AP) — Kenneth B. Thompson, 23, of St. Louis, has died of injuries received when the car he was driving crashed headon into another car Saturday, killing four members of a family and a passenger in the Thompson car.

Thompson, who died Monday night at St. Joseph's Hospital here, was reported to have been driving at a high rate of speed on the shoulder of Interstate 44 in Fenton when his car went out of control, crossed the median and crashed into a car driven by Orville Bunton, 30, of the St. Louis suburb of Brekenridge Hills.

Killed instantly in the crash was Bunton, his wife Joyce, 30; a son Orville Jr., 7; a daughter, 5-month-old Sherry, and Thompson's passenger, Terri Studdard, 20.

Two other Bunton children, Roger, 4, and Dolly, 2, remain in critical condition from multiple injuries received in the crash.

An off-duty St. Louis policeman pursuing Thompson's car said the car was going about 100 m.p.h. on the shoulder of the road when it sideswiped another car and swerved across the median. No other injuries were reported.

Old concepts die hard

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Old business concepts die hard, especially if they appear to serve those who harbor them, but just as often because of a blind fear that life cannot exist without them.

Many people will recall that at the conclusion of World War II there was a tendency of businesses to split into two schools: those who thought the country would return to depression, and those who believed a boom lay ahead.

Among the more notable of those who felt that since the country emerged from a prewar depression it was destined to return to a postwar one was Montgomery Ward & Co. Betting on the future, Sears, Roebuck & Co. grew larger than its rival.

Business today is presented with a long list of demands for change that, we are assured, it can't possibly live with. At the head of the list until recently was floating versus fixed exchange rates.

Currency exchange rates were fixed after World War II out of necessity. If nations were to resume trading they had to have a standard of what one currency was worth in relation to another.

Trade—the market itself—can establish relative values, but almost no trade existed among the devastated postwar economies. The dollar was inserted as the kingpin. It was a currency of known value, and other currencies could be assigned values in relation to it.

The world lived with this fixed rate concept for more than two decades. If a country's currency was demonstrably weaker than its assigned value then it was devalued. If overly strong it might be revalued to restore harmony.

The whole thing fell apart, however, when the dollar no longer could serve as the kingpin. Because of inflation and growing competitiveness abroad, its value slowly sank. Then it was officially devalued.

The effect was to wreck the old fixed rate system, and many businessmen, economists and government officials feared the worst. Trade will come to a crushing halt. You can't live without fixed rates, they said.

There were exceptions, most notably Prof. Milton Friedman. Why not, he said, float currencies free to find their own value in the market place? Currency values would be whatever traders were willing to pay for them.

Absurd, said the doubters, we'll never know what we're paying. We need to know if a dollar's a dollar and a franc a franc.

Well, exchange rates are floating, in the words of Morgan Guaranty, "not because of changed philosophical preferences but because of a pragmatic recognition." As has happened so often, the worst fears were only fears.

Sedalia's assets are outlined

"Selling Sedalia is easy, because Sedalia has so much to offer," Jake Siragusa, president of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, told members of the Rotary Club at noon Monday at Bothwell Hotel.

He listed Sedalia's attributes as fine AAA rated schools, an expanding community college, 55 churches, an excellent hospital, which is being enlarged, a symphony orchestra, an excellent park system, three country clubs and four golf courses, a children's therapy center, a new Municipal Building, a central location, and he said, "by all standards it is a wonderful place to live among friendly people."

He stressed the need to sell outsiders on the advantages Sedalia offers, and also to remind those who live here of local advantages and opportunities.

Siragusa, a native of New York state, is a businessman who has made Sedalia his home for the past 27 years. He came here to live after World War II. He became acquainted with the community while stationed at Sedalia Air Force Base, now Whiteman, in the 1940's.

As he has on other reported occasions, he emphasized Sedalia's need for the services of a full time industrial director to replace the vacancy created by the resignation of Bill Hall. He called attention to the importance industry plays in the progress of a community. He stated payroll money turns over seven times and is an important factor in the business health of Sedalia, or any community.

He also reported that applications for the position of executive manager of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce were being processed and the position would be filled early next year.

He was introduced by William Hopkins, general program chairman.

Robert Phillips, club president, reminded members that future meetings would be held at Ramada Inn beginning Monday. He read a letter addressed to the club membership from the Bothwell Hotel waitresses who regularly serve club members, stating, "It has been a pleasure serving you since 1927. We regret you are leaving us. May God bless the Rotary Club. Welcome back at any time." The note was signed by Ella Starkey, Lizzie Beck, Helen Cramer, Sue Stout and Frances Cross.

Guests introduced by Gerald Cherry were David Swan, Kansas City, with Walter Savio, and Bill Buckholtz and Jim Pickett, Smith-Cotton High School students.

Firearms conviction is third one

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — Bobby Lee Williams, former civil rights figure in Missouri and Illinois, has been convicted for the third time on charges of falsifying applications for firearms in May 1971.

A U.S. District Court jury deliberated 20 minutes Monday before convicting Williams on both counts of an indictment charging him with giving a false address and denying he had ever been convicted of a crime when he purchased guns at a Cape Girardeau store. At the time of the purchase Williams was associated with the United Front of Cairo, Ill.

Williams was given five year sentences on two previous convictions on the same charges, but both convictions were overturned by the 8th U.S. Court of Appeals.

The prosecution noted that at the time Williams purchased the guns he was appealing a Circuit Court conviction of a concealed weapons charge.

Throwaway container deposit is considered

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Kansans may find those throwaway drink containers too valuable to discard if an interim legislative committee has its way.

The special committee on environmental protection endorsed a bill Monday designed to eliminate the litter of cans and bottles by requiring a five-cent deposit on beer and soft drink containers.

Oregon already has adopted such a law.

Sen. John Simpson, R-Salina, committee chairman, said he thinks the measure has "a reasonable chance" of winning legislative approval in 1974.

"We feel it can reduce litter in the state, as shown by the experience in Oregon," Simpson said. "It will also help with our solid waste problem probably as much as reduce the litter. I'm told disposable containers are probably 3 to 5 per cent of our total waste."

The proposed law would require that all beer and soft drink containers—whether or not they are designed to be throwaways—would have a minimum five cents deposit beginning Jan. 1, 1975.

The legislation would apply to all sizes of glass, plastic and metal containers for beer, mineral waters, soda water and soft drinks. It would not apply to containers sold prior to the effective date but containers used after the first of 1975 would be stamped "five cents deposit due in Kansas."

All retailers and wholesalers would be required to redeem the containers at the five-cent refund price unless an association of dealers set up some type of redemption center.

At hearings earlier this month, representatives of the beverage industry generally opposed the proposed law, contending the costs of handling the returnable containers would add to the product's cost.

Delta Queen replacement is readied

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Rep. Leonor Sullivan, D-Mo., who three times helped preserve the Delta Queen as an overnight passenger carrier on the Mississippi and Ohio rivers, will attend dedication ceremonies at Jefferson, Ind., Nov. 11 for the hull of the boat's successor.

Rep. Sullivan, chairman of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, sponsored successful legislation three times to win exemption for the riverboat from the U.S. Safety at Sea Act.

The last exemption preserved the Queen, America's last inland water passenger carrier, for five years. The Queen was considered in violation of the safety act because its superstructure is made of wood.

The Delta Queen II, scheduled to go into operation in 1975, will be steel and cost $15.5 million.

The new boat will have a 379-foot hull and will accommodate 400 passengers in lower berths, 200 in staterooms, and carry a crew of 125.

Like the Delta Queen, it will have a steam-operated whistle and calliope. It will also have two elevators, a swimming pool, sauna, beauty parlor, movie theater and four bars.

CHICAGO (AP) — Lawyer William Kunstler cradled Abbie Hoffman's 2-year-old son, america, while Lee Weiner stared into a book and Rennie Davis whispered to David Dellinger.

The Chicago conspiracy defendants were back on trial Monday in U.S. District Court.

This time they are being tried by Judge Edward T. Gignoux of Portland, Maine, on 52 contempt charges imposed by Judge Julius J. Hoffman at the conclusion of the conspiracy trial in 1970.

That trial was an outgrowth of violence during the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Kunstler and his colleague, Leonard I. Weinglass, are defendants as well as lawyers in this trial, since they were included in Hoffman's citations, which later were overthrown by a federal appeals court and remanded to the lower court for trial.

Morton Stavis of New York City is acting as chief counsel and Dellinger is defending himself. The rest of the cast, except for Gignoux and the U.S. prosecutors, is about the same.

Jerry C. Rubin has shaved his beard. Tom Hayden has married actress Jane Fonda and still sits solemnly at the defense table. John Froines still is quiet.

And Hoffman, the master of many antics for the 4½ months of the conspiracy trial, tests milk formula on his wrist like any dutiful father who brings his son to court. The boy spun around on the large swivel chairs and cried out only when his father pulled him away from an inviting, long red beard worn by a spectator.

Gignoux quickly dispelled any thoughts that this trial would be interrupted or delayed by complex legal maneuvering. He refused to admit as government evidence 63 reels of tapes made by Dorothy Rasoul, the court reporter during the conspiracy trial.

The government said it only learned of the tapes' existence last week. Defense attorneys argued they had no time to hear the tapes and wanted an extended continuance. Gignoux simply ruled against the tapes.

He also rejected a request from Stavis for an evidentiary hearing to determine if the recently changed top officials in the Justice Department approved the contempt prosecutions. An assistant U.S. attorney told the judge the case had been approved.

Rubin, Hoffman, Dellinger, Hayden and Davis were convicted in 1970 of crossing state lines to incite rioting at the Democratic convention. Froines and Weiner were acquitted.

The five convictions later were reversed by a federal appeals court and the government declined to try the charges a second time.

All seven defendants were acquitted of conspiracy to incite rioting.

Governor selling limousine

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The governor's limousine will be sold at auction Nov. 17 as part of the state's effort to save fuel.

The announcement Monday said the 1969 Cadillac will be offered to the highest bidder "in the interest of saving the taxpayer's money."

Gov. Christopher S. Bond has used the car, bearing license plate No. 1, sparingly since taking office in January. He uses a state-leased Lincoln Continental and his wife drives a 1972 Buick Electra. The Lincoln is not being sold.

The governor has recommended that state agencies buy small, more economical vehicles.

The Cadillac cost $12,000 new. A spokesman said it was uncertain whether the license plate will go with the car.

Bond has pledged to eliminate low-numbered license plates after this year, calling them a remnant of the system of political favors. He has not picked up his new license plate No. 1 from the revenue department, a spokesman said.

Romans, Vandals, Goths, Byzantines, Lombards, Aragonese, Genoese, Moors and Barbary pirates all took part in ravaging, enslaving, taxing and hounding the Corsican people.

Shipping companies are favored by ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Maritime Commission, in a decision that could reduce ship traffic in some U.S. ports, has ruled in favor of shipping companies and against port interests.

The commission ruled Monday that ships can discharge cargo destined for two ports at one selected port, then ship the cargo by land to the second port.

The decision, coming in a three-year-old case filed by the City of Portland, Ore., involves issues at stake in numerous other cases brought by port interests after the advent of containerized shipping.

The biggest advantage of container ships is their ability to be unloaded quickly. The fewer ports on which they call, the more effective economically they become.

Portland's case sought to keep ocean steamship companies from unloading at Seattle cargo destined for Portland. The steamship owners paid the extra cost of transporting the cargo by land from Seattle to Portland but saved money since their ships were not tied up in U.S. ports as long.

Portland said this practice, known as "intermodal transportation," was causing economic hardship to its port.

"Portland must bear in mind that although its interest is one which we are bound to protect (and feel our decision here does so), the carriers and consignees also have interests which we must strive to protect and that the public interest is much larger than the needs of or desires (of a particular port area)," the commission said in its unanimous ruling.

The ruling does not directly affect other diversion of cargo suits pending before the commission. However, a commission spokesman said the decision will set the guidelines for other cases.

The commission has announced it plans to hold hearings on a similar case brought by the Delaware River Port Authority and other Philadelphia port interests. Cases brought by other port areas are pending.

Most against impeachment in Atlanta poll

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A telephone survey conducted by the Atlanta Constitution showed that 59.6 per cent of 267 persons interviewed at random do not want to see President Nixon impeached, the newspaper said in today's editions.

The paper said 26.4 per cent of the 267 favored impeachment.

At the same time, the paper said, 54.5 per cent of those interviewed said they felt the news media has been fair to Nixon, and 31.8 per cent believed the media has been unfair. Nearly 14 per cent had no opinion.

Other questions and responses in the survey conducted in the Atlanta area included:

Did you vote for Nixon in the last election? Yes — 55.4 per cent. No — 34 per cent. Responses of the remaining 10.6 per cent were not given and apparently included persons who did not vote in 1972.

Report ITT appeal halt was ordered by president

NEW YORK (AP) — Former U.S. Atty Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst reportedly told Watergate prosecutors that President Nixon ordered him to halt an appeal of the government's antitrust cases against the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., the New York Times said Tuesday.

Quoting sources, the Times said Kleindienst had told the Watergate prosecutors that Nixon called him after Kleindienst had turned down a request in 1971 from John D. Ehrlichman, then a White House adviser, to drop the appeal.

The appeal was held up and the government agreed to an out-of-court settlement that allowed ITT to retain the $1-billion Hartford Insurance Co. while giving up Canteen Corp. and other holdings.

Published reports have linked the out-of-court settlement to ITT's pledge to contribute as much as $200,000 to the 1972 GOP convention. The reports were denied by ITT and the Justice Department.

The White House called the Times story "distorted and unfair" and accused the staff of fired Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox of "an inexcusable breach of confidence."

"This information comes from a highly confidential conversation between Archibald Cox and former Atty. Gen. Kleindienst and from documents furnished voluntarily and also furnished in absolute confidence by the White House to Mr. Cox," the White House said. "The information furnished by the White House and Mr. Kleindienst put the matter into fair and accurate perspective."

The Times quoted sources close to the case as saying that after Kleindienst's conversation with Ehrlichman, Nixon called Kleindienst and, after calling him a "vulgar name," said, "Don't you understand the English language?" and ordered the appeal stopped.

"The President's direction to Mr. Kleindienst was based on his belief that the Canteen case represented a policy of the Justice Department with which he strongly disagreed, namely that bigness per se was unlawful," the White House statement said.

"When the specific facts of the appeal were subsequently explained in greater detail, the President withdrew his objection and the appeal was prosecuted in exactly the form originally proposed."

Airlines gets exemption for allocation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frontier Airlines has received an exemption from mandatory fuel allocations, says an aide to Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb.

Don Shasteen, Curtis' administrative assistant, said the exemption granted by the Interior Department's Office of Oil and Gas applies for the month of November. Fuel suppliers are being ordered to sell Frontier the same amount of fuel in November that it bought in October, Shasteen said.

Last week Frontier announced plans to cut back service to some Midwest communities because of the fuel allocation.

Reject request for new trial

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has rejected a request from convicted heroin dealer James (Fats) Woods of St. Louis for a new trial.

The appellate court turned down the request Tuesday and upheld a jury verdict of guilty last March against Woods, 27, who is currently serving a 30-year prison term as a result of that conviction.

Woods had contended a new trial was necessary because he had been the victim of prejudicial pretrial publicity. He also charged that the prosecutor failed to disclose the names of the three informers Woods allegedly sold heroin to.

But the appeals court noted that only one juror could recall the contents of any newspaper articles about Woods and rejected the contention that failure to disclose the informers' names was grounds for a new trial.

Russian harvest may boost world wheat crop

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1973 world wheat crop apparently will be much larger than was expected two months ago because of a big gain in Russian harvest prospects, the Agriculture Department says.

Although a larger wheat supply is good news to needy countries that depend on food grain imports, the situation is causing concern to U.S. growers who have been anticipating high prices over the next six or eight months.

The department said Monday in a special report that the Soviet Union has produced a record crop of 100 million metric tons this year, about 3.7 billion bushels.

Officials said further that the estimate soon may be revised again to around 110 million tons. If so, that will mean extra grain in the world market.

The Foreign Agricultural Service said the 1973-74 use of wheat is expected to be about 360 million tons. The total world output this season is estimated at about 355 million. But if the Russian crop is revised upward 10 million tons, the world production will exceed demand by about five million tons.

American farmers produced a record crop this year of 47 million metric tons or 1.73 billion bushels—less than half of the Russian crop.

Nearly three-fourths of U.S. wheat production, however, is available for export, while the Soviets are thought to need nearly all their harvest to rebuild some supplies.

But according to trade sources, the Soviet wheat crop is raising concern that Russia, after being a record importer in 1972-73, may be in a position to begin selling some wheat next year on the world market.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rice farmers may see some decline in cash market prices next year if new world production estimates by the Agriculture Ddepartment materialize.

The 1973-74 world crop is expected to be a record 300 million metric tons, up about 15 million from last season, USDA says.

"If realized, it is expected to begin relieving the extremely tight current supply situation, starting in November," the department said Monday in a report.
